

Atlantis Pots Overview

Our Atlantis

Atlantis pots give your garden a touch of the ancient world. Made new, Atlantis pots are designed to look as though they have been salvaged from the depths of history. Constructed from modern materials using contemporary techniques, they bring the aesthetics of ancient civilisations to your garden. Our range features a variety of jars, urns and planters, high fired to be frost resistant and extremely durable. This rustic style is ideal for a wide range of garden decors, completely every outdoor setting.

Our Atlantis Difference

Tripled fired in a kiln for unbeatable strength these Pots are an amazing showpiece and can complement any. Our factory has much better quality control than competitors with professional grading, consistent finishes and high quality glazes to give an impeccable finish whilst maintaining low costs.

Sizes, Colours and Lead Times

Available in a wide range of shapes and textured finishes for a truly one of a kind look. Lead times are usually anywhere from 1-9 weeks.

Our Manufacturing Location

We have a large manufacturing facility based overseas which allows us to reduce the cost of your Pots due to the lower production costs overseas. We oversee production and quality control with Australian oversight to ensure it meets our stringent Quality controls for both commercial and residential application using the same materials as Australia. We have been successfully producing pots for over 25 years and are proudly Australian.
